

Dr. Xiaoguang Sun, is a professor-level Senior Engineer at CRRC Qingdao Sifang Co. Ltd, China. He received the Ph.D. degree in materials science from Harbin Institute of Technology and worked as a visiting researcher at University of Alberta, Canada before joining the industrial sector. He is currently in charge of surface engineering team and mainly engaged in the research and engineering application of anti-corrosion and surface engineering technologies for rail vehicles.

He serves as a committee member of Standardization Administration of the People's Republic of China, a committee member of Working Groups under ISO/TC156 and TC107, a member of Railway Facilities Committee of Chinese Society for Corrosion and Protection. He is employed as an industrial supervisor for postgraduates at Harbin Institute of Technology, and Dalian University of Technology. He served as the Chair of the 1st "Belt and Road" Railway Equipment Anti-Corrosion Technology Forum. He was awarded as CRRC Excellent Engineer and Qingdao Top-notch talent.